

This proposed rule is an example of a bureaucratic non-solution to a problem. It allows anyone to be penalized without recourse, without any due process, without any procedures for contesting the penalty, and without any standards of evidence. Does the agency really think that taking away a pilot's certificate is going to stop some committed terrorist from acting? The only people who will be affected by this absurd rule will be law-abiding pilots who have been mistakenly identified as terrorists.